Abroad as I was walking	15
A dean and a prebendary	49
A hundred years hence (chorus)	25
Alack, for my love I shall dye (chorus)	20
Alas! what sullen fate has hence conveyed	46
All Christians and lay-elders too	10

Page.

First Lines, &c.—continued.

All you that fathers be 16
Almightie God made by His Word 5
Amid these scenes of war that round us rise 57
Amongst the pure ones all, which conscience doth profess 53
And a begging we will go (chorus) 23
And has this bitch, my muse, trapan'd me? 50
And hast thou left old Jemmy in the lurch? 49
And is his breath expir'd? hath his chaste soul 54
A noble lord of high renown 31, 33
A noble marquess 16
A noble marquis, as he was hunting 36
A noble Roman was the root ... 40
A papist dy'd, as 'twas Jehovah's will 55
A presbyter is such a monstrous thing 46
Art thou return'd, my sister concubine? 13
A seaman of Dover, Sweet William by name 34
A second Charles once more shall reign (chorus) 11
As I abroad was walking 17
As I from Ireland did pass 18
As I to Ireland did pass 18
A thousand times I me recomende 1
Attend unto a true relation ... 34
At Winchester was a wedding 17

Page.

First Lines, &c.—continued.

A weaver, jealous of his wife, like many 28
Bacchus, the father of drunken nowls 9
Back blushing morne, to thine eternall bed 43
Beautiful virgins, of birth and breeding 36
Behold the liquid Thames now frozen o'er 21
Behold the touchstone of true love 37
Be light, and glad, in God rejoyce 2
Beside a pleasant hill in Kent... 37
Both parents and lovers, I pray now attend 42
But that which admiration 8
By the first principles of mother earth 52
Can Tiveot, Britain's glorious victime dye? 45
Come all ye young gallants, and listen a while 30
Come along my valiant souldiers 10
Come chear up your hearts, boys, & all hands to work ... 25
Come hither young sinner 12
Come listen awhile (though the weather be cold) 21
Come painter, take a prospect from this hill 49
Come, ye merry men all 19
Complaine my lute, complaine on him 5
Dear love regard my grief 15
Den. Hollis is a gallant man ... 52
Derry down, down (chorus) ... 56

Page.

First Lines, &c.—continued.

Dignifi'd things, may I your leaves implore 49
Draw neere, you factious citizens, prepare 44
E'er since I saw Clarinda's eyes 31
E. hath my herte in holde 1
Fair angel of England, thy beauty most bright 19
Fam'd Thamasis, with shiv'ring winter dresses 21
Fame thy loudest blast prepare 27
Farewell damn'd Stygian juice, that dost bewitch 48
Farewell, old Parliament, of seaven yeares standing 52
Forth from my sad and darksome cell 8
Four monarchs of worth 29
From how many posts in King George's dominions 57
Give ear to a frolicksome ditty 20
Give eare (beloved countrimen) 53
Give o'er, ye rhiming ranting lads 14
God prosper long our noble king, 35, 37
Good people now listen, I cannot forbear 28
Good women all, a while give ear 12
Hail hi'roglyphick state machin 51
Heard you not lately of a man 8, 21
Henry our royal king would ride a hunting 36
Her husband was a musketeer, and she a famous drummer (chorus) 23
Here is a pennyworth of wit ... 34, 37
His prayr's at last are hear'd, and heav'n has gain'd 56

Page.

First Lines, &c.—continued.

Hold Stygian sculler, what hast brought me here 47
How now, good fellow, what all amort 19
I did intend in rhimes heroick 51
If any be distrest, and faine would gather 42
If any man have found law in a declaration 43
If Cecil the Wise 55
If children to parents 6
If ever woe did touch a woman's heart 4
If there were imployments ... 6
I heard much talk of Oxford town 30
I'll tell you a story, a story anon 17
I'll warrant thee boy, shee's right (chorus) 12
I'm come my future fate to seek 55
I must confess that we all lamented 50
In Antioch fair town 28
In Bath a wanton wife did dwell 16, 41
In Brichin did a webster dwell 27
In famous York city a farmer did dwell 36
In Lime began a rebellion 22
In prime of years, when I was young 31
In Rome a nobleman did wed... 19
In the gallant month of June 6
In the west of England 18
In Windsor famous town did dwell 35
In Yorkshire late happen'd a desperat fight 24

First Lines, &c.—continued.	Page.
I once espy'd an handsome wench	26
I sing you a song of a right noble ——	56
I spent my time in rioting	40
Is this the upshot, then? We that have spent	53
I, the Laird of Dysert, Melvine by name	40
I to her will be like Leander	6
It was a Scotchman	4
I wander up and downe	5
Last week in Lent I came to town	37
Lend me your ears, not cropt, and I'le sing	10
London is a brave towne (chorus)	52
Look how the country-hobbs with wonder flock	57
Look you faithful lovers	20
Lord Thomas he was a bold forester	33
Loyall lovers listen well	7
Margaret my sweetest, Margaret I must go	15
Mark well my words, you country men	22
Mournful Melpomenie assist my quil	9
My garments drest with pearl	9
My love he was as brave a man	39
My masters all attend you	14
My name is Captain Kid, who has sail'd	29
My noble muse assist me	7
Near Ratcliff Cross liv'd a cooper there	41
Noble hearts all round the nation	56
O God a mercy Parliament (chorus)	44
Oh dear love be you content	7
O house of Commons, house of Peeres (chorus)	10
O Lord that art our God	1
Once in a morning sweet and fair	39
Once more, brave boys, let us proclaim	29
One evening, a little before it was dark	14
O Partridge! art thou gone, and we in tears	51
O praise the Lord with hart and minde (chorus)	3
O! Scotland, now repent	38
Our age strange things hath brought to light	11
Poor Tom hath been imprison'd	10
Pray, Mr. Recorder	49
Pray pray, and praise the Lord (chorus)	2
Reader, draw near, and offer thy divine	45
Rejoyce in hart good people all	3
Sad prodigy! Can famous valiant Grey	44
Sated with love and wine last night	48
Shall Presbyterian bells ring Cromwel's praise	45
Shepherd Adonis, being weary of his sport	32
Since it be fit that I account should give	42
Since now the world's turn'd upside down	30

First Lines, &c.—continued.	Page.
Since some very good friends (in prose)	38
Sir, my muse bid you welcome when you come	48
Sir, since the scum of these three nations	55
Some tell of Affrick monsters, which of old	51
Sound the trumpet, beat the drum	24
Strike up, you lusty gallants	20
Tan-tivvee (chorus)	14
Tender hearts of London city	24
That 's the fat foole of the Curtin	14
The busie statesmen, who by toyls unblest	47
The busie Toney, who by toil unblest	47
The citizens brave	11
The hierarchy is out of date	44
The honour, glory, and the graee	26
The last time I eame o'er the moor	39
The man that sighs and sorrows for his sin	4
The Parliament hath sitten close (chorus)	52
The silly poor man came o'er the lea	39
Then raging towards the skie I rose	8
Then shall we hear sweet harmony	11
There happen'd of late a terrible fray	13
There is an old proverb, which al the world knows	45
There lives a lass on Eathing side	40
There was a jovial beggar	23
There was a lord of worthy fame	32
There was a wealthy man	16
This song 's of a beggar, who long lost his sight	41
Thou sun that shed'st the dayes, looke downe and see	11
To drive away the weary day	35
To see the gowlin (chorus)	15
To the honor of those gentry that live at the Inns of Court (chorus)	8
To you right worthies, worthy of renowne	53
True churchmen all, I pray behold & see	11
Truth I could chide you, sirs, why how so late	43
'Twas in the month of May, Jo	30
Under this stone does sleeping lye	47
Under this stone doth rotting lie	47
Ungrateful wretch, can'st thou pretend a cause	55
Unhappy age, and we in it	55
Unhappy she whom fortune hath forlorn	4
Unto the Lord that rules above	12
Upon a night of misty vapours	24
We are the bold Suffolk boon revelling boys	25
Wee alone the only monarch (in prose)	23

Page.

First Lines, &c.—continued.

Welcom, my lord, unto these Stygian plains 46
Well met, friend Perigrin, from whence cam'st thou? 54
Were I, who to my cost already am 51
We, the long-heads of Gotham 50
What, is there none that will the city right? 54
What shall I doe? I am cast out of doore 43
When all the glories of triumphant Rome 48
When Anne, a princess of renown 28
When as in fair Jerusalem 33
When as King Henry rul'd the land 35, 41
When first I drew the breath of life 31
When first on board a man of war 33
When first the Indian trade began 38
When first this couple fell in love 23
When Flora, with her fragrant flowers 32
When the joy of all hearts, and desire of all eyes 24
When Willy once he stayed ... 7
Where is there faith or justice to be found? 56
Whereas conformists & dissenters 52
Which nobody can deny (chorus) 10
White lilies shall pave the closes 7

Page.

First Lines, &c.—continued.

Will nothing serve? will nothing else suffice? 43
Will you hear of a Spanish lady? 32, 34
With a thump, thump, thump (chorus) 13
With brinishe teares and sobbing sighes..... 2
Why kept your train-bands such a stirre 52
Ye woods and groves, and ratling streams 38
You bakers of England, both country and citty 27
You Gods (quoth she) I invocate 6
You loyall lovers that are distant 6
You matrons all 22, 26
You may as well find a needle in a bottle of hay (chorus) 28
You most indulgent parents, lend an ear 34
You subjects of Britain, come listen a while 25
You traitors all that doo devise 3
Young lovers lend an ear, I 'm sure you 'll shed a tear..... 42
